

NOTES ON THE CONTRIBUTORS

DAVID HALL is President of the Association and Head of the Rodgers and Hammerstein Archives at New York Public Library.

FRED WILLIAMS is a military band enthusiast and private collector and dealer in Philadelphia.

WILLIAM D. CURTIS is a free-lance discographer and author. He is currently at work on a comprehensive discography of the music of Sibelius.

TIM BROOKS is Director, Television Network Research, for the NBC-TV Network.

LES GERBER is a contributor to Fanfare magazine.

PHILIP L. MILLER is the retired Chief of the Music Division of the New York Public Library.

DAVID HAMILTON is a contributing Editor to High Fidelity magazine.

HARRIS GOLDSMITH is a professional pianist and contributor to High Fidelity.

SCOTT CANTRELL is a professional organist.

GREGORY DINGER is a professional guitarist and host on radio station WDST-FM.

WALTER PATE is an Instructor in Piano at the Catholic University, Washington, D.C.

HENRY FOGEL is Executive Director of the National Symphony Orchestra, Washington, D.C. He will be reviewing extensive reissues of Hans Knappertsbusch in a future Journal.

DAN MORGENSTERN is Head of the Rutgers Institute of Jazz Studies.

ERIC HUGHES is Information Officer at the British Institute of Recorded Sound.

J. F. WEBER is a discographer and contributor to Fanfare magazine.

MIKE BIEL is Assistant Professor of Radio-Television at Morehead State University, Morehead, Kentucky.

MARTIN DAVIDSON is a computer programmer and free-lance writer on music.

J. PETER BERGMAN is a free-lance writer and researcher living in New York.