ARSC WASHINGTON CONFERENCE PLANS FIRM UP

Richard Perry reports that plans are well under way toward creating for the Washington, D.C. conference (May 28-30) as rich and interesting a program as the 1986 Lincoln Center meeting enjoyed. Although some details of the program are not yet finalized, Richard indicates that we can expect a healthy amount of material on jazz (papers on Fletcher Henderson, Sarah Vaughan, Hoagy Carmichael, Duke Ellington, and Anthony Braxton, as well as a panel on the subject of restoring classic jazz masters). There will be a special panel on Latin American music and recordings (organized by Carlos Hagen), several papers on discographies, including information on how to put your home computer to best usage, and what promises to be a lively session on Fair Use and Copyright conflicts. David Hamilton is organizing a panel on the subject of what recordings can reveal about 19th century music practices (participants will include Andrew Porter of The New Yorker and Will Crutchfield of The New York Times); other papers related to classical music will discuss the Spanish sources for Carmen, the recordings of Frank Guerrera (with the singer present), and rare tapes used in the background music to The Lone Ranger! There will be presentations on spoken word recordings and on English and American vaudeville material on disc. And, of course, there will be ample time set aside for papers on new technology, digital signal processing and for important reports related to various ARSC activities. And more. Past president Michael Gray has arranged very inexpensive lodgings ($15/night) at George Washington University where the majority of the conference will be held (one morning's session will be held at the Smithsonian). Though more specific information will be sent to members in due time, Richard hopes that you will circle these dates on your calendar now and plan to attend.

ARSC AWARDS GRANTS

Two new grants have been made in ARSC's continuing program to support and promote individual research into recording history. Mark Tucker, a jazz enthusiast who recently joined the music faculty of Yale University, was awarded $250 toward expenses in interviewing and compiling the memoirs and discography of 83-year-old jazz pioneer Garvin Bushell. Bushell is a multi-reed player who has been performing since the 1910s and has vivid, first-hand recollections of many of the jazz giants of the 1920s onward, including those he knew while performing with the Sam Wooding Orchestra of the 1920s and the Chick Webb and Cab Calloway Orchestras of the 1930s.

A second grant of $350 was made to Michael Gray, co-author of The Bibliography of Discographies (classical and popular volumes), to assist in research for updates of those volumes, as well as a discography of Otto Klemperer and interviews with several pioneers of the British recording industry. Gray will conduct a portion of his research in England during 1987.

ARSC grants are open to both members and non-members of the Association, and can be used to support research in any field of recorded music, record history or record preservation. To date, 14 grants have been made to individuals to help them complete research projects. Grants are now available in amounts up to $500; applications for 1987 should be sent to the ARSC Executive Director, POB 2086, Fairfax, VA 22031.

HALL AND MILLER RECEIVE HONORARY ARSC MEMBERSHIPS

Library's Rodgers and Hammerstein Sound Archives, were presented with the honors at the Association's 1986 conference. Miller is a noted archivist and critic and was the first President of ARSC. Hall was the author of one of the earliest and most influential books on classical record collecting, THE RECORD BOOK, and was the first editor of the ARSC Journal. He later served as the Association's President.

ARCHIVES ALIVE LABEL ISSUES FIRST LPS

Pop music archivist Michael Ochs has started his own record label, Archives Alive, which will specialize in rare and historically important albums. His first two releases reflect Ochs’s eclectic tastes: A Toast to Those Who Are Gone is a collection of previously unreleased recordings by Michael’s brother, the topical songwriter and singer Phil Ochs; Get Right With The Swan Silvertones is a collection of gospel performances by the vocal group whose lead singer, Claude Jeter, influenced the vocal styles of Sam Cooke, Al Green and other soul and pop performers. Archives Alive is handled by Rhino Records, 1201 Olympic Boulevard, Santa Monica, CA 90404 and is distributed through Capitol Records. Ochs plans to develop, compile and issue six albums annually; his second set of releases is expected early in 1987. His address is Michael Ochs Archives, 520 Victoria Avenue, Venice, CA 90291; telephone 213-306-6111. The archives contain approximately 50,000 singles, 50,000 albums and more than 100,000 photos in addition to other material such as sheet music, concert programs and videos.

On November 7, 1920 Elgar recorded Five Piano Improvisations which were released briefly on a long unavailable lp issue. Symposium Records (UK) has arranged with EMI to press the records next summer on three vinyl 78rpm discs along with Elgar's 1926 recording of his arrangement for orchestra of Bach's Fantasia and Fugue in C minor (BWV 537) on one vinyl 78 disc. Also to be pressed during the summer are experimental stereo test recordings made by EMI in 1934 with Beecham conducting the LPO in four sections of Mozart's Jupiter Symphony (two vinyl 78 rpm discs); Alan Blumlein was engineer for the test. For further details including prices and postal charges, write to Levine Associates, 110 Derwent Avenue, East Barnet, Hertfordshire, EN4 8LZ, England. Orders for the issues are by advance subscription only.

LC RECEIVES AMERICAN DIALECT RECORDINGS

Representatives of the Center for Applied Linguistics presented the Library of Congress with a recorded collection of 118 hours of American English dialect samples on November 12. This large and important body of spoken-word material is of particular interest, having been drawn from the archives of 50 linguists, dialectologists, folklorists, and other speech collectors. Some voices recorded will be quite familiar: Fiorello LaGuardia, Groucho Marx, and Eleanor Roosevelt. Others are recordings of voices of persons who, despite their celebrity, are seldom heard: Amelia Earhart, Jack Dempsey, and H.L. Mencken. The greater part of the collection, however, is the voices of unknown individuals whose statements comprise an aural kaleidoscope of the American experience. For additional information about the collection, contact Gerald Parsons, reference librarian at the American Folklife Center, Archive of Folk Culture, Washington, DC 20540, or project director Donna Christian at the Center for Applied Linguistics, 1118 22nd Street, N.W., Washington, DC 20037.

CENTER RETURNS RECORDINGS TO NATIVE AMERICANS

The Federal Cylinder Project of the American Folklife Center (AFC) has begun distributing copies of early wax-cylinder recordings of Native Americans to the communities in which they were originally recorded between 1890 and the early 1940s. The dissemination of electronically filtered cassette copies has been made possible by a grant from The Ford Foundation. The project staff, in consultation with a national panel of Native American cultural specialists, has written tribal governments to let them know that cassette copies of the early recordings are available and that staff members can provide advice relating to the collections of cylinder recordings, archiving, and cultural conservation efforts.

NEH GRANT TO BOWLING GREEN RECORDINGS ARCHIVES

Bowling Green State University's Music Library and Sound Recordings Archives in Ohio has been awarded a National Endowment for the Humanities grant ($76,713) to catalog 12,000 popular recordings made between 1950 and 1970 and to share that catalog information with OCLC, an online database for libraries, and the Library of Congress. This is the second time NEH has funded Bowling Green's efforts to catalog portions of its collection of 400,000 recordings which includes 1ps, 45s, 78s and cylinders. The first grant was used to catalog 15,000 recordings issued on major labels between 1950 and 1970. Archivist William Schurk says that the new grant will enable his staff to fill in the gaps of the large label holdings and to catalog records produced by the small budget labels. For further information on the Archives and the project, call Teri Sharp at BGSU, 419-372-2616. Footnote: The Archives have recently acquired 16,000 popular music recordings from a Panama City, Florida, collector. The collection features examples of early rock-and-roll and all country music #1 hits from 1949 to 1982.

SERIES ON EDISON ARTISTS PLANNED

The Record Collector has a new project in the works. Editor and Publisher Clifford Williams has been in contact with Dennis Foreman of Flint, Michigan who has agreed to write a series on lesser-known Edison artists such as Middleton, Case, Rappold, Heinrich, etc. Williams plans to begin running the items in the next volume of TRC; they will not be full-length articles, but rather short ones with a 'potted' biography plus details of the Edison recordings. Williams thinks that the series will prove of interest as it has not been done in TRC before. For further information write to him in care of the TRC, 18 Penhydd Street, Pontrhydyfen, Port Talbot, West Glamorgan, South Wales, SA12 9SB, United Kingdom. Williams also writes that TRC plans to review the vocal issues in the Symposium Records (UK) series being reissued on vinyl 78s by Levine Associates (referenced earlier in this issue of the Newsletter).
